Training Program: Construction Safety Officer Training (CSO)

Training Location: BCIT Burnaby Campus

Training Dates: September 10th-21st, 2018

1.) Why did you want to take the Construction Safety Officer Training?

I took the construction safety officer course as a way of opening my future doors, and exploring the possibilities of the labour industries.

2.) What did you think of the BCIT Burnaby Campus and what was your personal student experience there?

The BCIT campus was defiantly a maze, with many building across the campus. On my first day it was an adventure to figure out where I was, but it was super fun walking across the campus seeing all the new people.

Citxw Nlaka'pamux Assembly – Employment and Training - Career Role Model

3.) Was it hard for you to travel from Merritt to Burnaby to take the training?

IT was a nice trip between Merritt, and Burnaby seeing the scenery but it was a long trip back and forth.

4.) What did you like about the CSO Training?

The CSO course was pretty hard and more reading than I thought, compared to my first aid course I took. The course was more focused on reading, and writing compared to all hands on learning which was slightly difficult.

5.) Were there any challenges with taking the CSO Training?

My challenge for my training was sitting in class and learning by reading, I find learning is easier and more fun when its hands on exploring.

6.) What do you plan to use the training for?

I plan on using this training as a doorway to endless possibilities in exploring what the future could hold, I'm still young so I find this as a good first step in to the world.

Thank you to all of Chief & Council and members who came out and listened and gave feedback.

Winner for the Tourism Worlds Café Basket!

Fireworks!

Homemade Halloween Costume Ideas

LEGO – Cardboard box, plastic cups, glue, paint

Start by cutting two arm holes and a head hole in a box that fits you. Next glue the bottom of the cups upside down to the front of your box and then paint whatever color you'd like.

Cowboy/Cowgirl – Plaid shirt, western boots, cowboy/girl hat. You could add accessories like a bandana around the neck, belt buckles, rope – the list is endless

Ghost – Any size sheet that fits you. Cut eye holes and the bottom of the sheet if needed so you are not tripping over it.

Baby – Wear your pj's and grab a bottle or pacifier your favorite stuffy and some slippers. Wear your hair in a ponytail or to pigtails

Mime – Wear black pants and a black/white shirt, paint your face white. You could also add white gloves & black suspenders

Bunch of Grapes – Purple or burgundy balloons blow them up (not huge a bit on the smaller side so they don't all pop) and safety pin them to a shirt and for the vines use green ribbon in your hair.

Detective – Pulling together this simple super sleuth's disguise will seem so easy. Dress in black from head to toe, topped with a cape, and accessorized with headgear borrowed from Dad's closet and a magnifying glass to complete our private eye's look.

The possibilities are endless!!

Dear the Bands of the Citxw Nlaka'pamux Assembly,

We are excited to announce our partnership with the University of Victoria (UVIC) on a study exploring how the community members of the Citxw Nlaka'pamux Assembly's perceive their own success in sport. This is the first of its kind and will be groundbreaking for future development of health and sport in our nation.

The goals of the study are to:

- Increase our understanding around the successes and gaps in sport in our communities;
- Help the CNA with the formation of our sport and recreation advisory group that we plan to form for the nation. This could be you! (Very important)

We have decided to partner with them on this study, as we feel this knowledge will benefit our own sporting potential in the future and all of the knowledge acquired will be primarily owned by our Assembly.

Therefore, I would like to introduce you Brianna Waldman, the primary researcher on this study. I previously worked with Brianna at the Aboriginal Sports and Recreation Association many years ago and together we will be exploring this study. As well, it is a part of her Kinesiology MA research project at UVIC. We look forward to welcoming her into our communities.

This study isn't possible without your participation; therefore we encourage you to participate as a volunteer if you fall within the following criteria:

- A member of one of the 8 Bands in the Citxw Nlaka'pamuxv Assembly's.
- Ages 19+yrs.
- You are a participant in sport, have been a participant in sport or are connected to a participant in sport.

Study Requirements Include:

- To complete a short, anonymous & confidential online survey - approx 15-20 min in length.
- Additionally, if interested, there will a 2-4hr focus group discussion based on this topic held at the end of October after the surveys are compiled. This is not a requirement. This will be based on first interest showed and will be provided as a question in the survey provided. Location/times are still TBD.

Alternatively, interested individuals are asked to contact Brianna Waldman via email at briannaw@uvic.ca.

This study has received approval from the University of Victoria's Human Research Ethics Board along with approval from the Citxw Nlaka'pamuxv Assembly. If you have any questions please contact either of my supervisors by email at whitinui@uvic.ca/jmeldrum@uvic.ca or the university's ethics board at ethics@uvic.ca.

Thank you,
Brianna Waldman
